xists beyond the extended jamily. v programs or initiatives may exhaust e church families and their resources ime. Carefully cultivate resources and investments for maximum missional impact. Serve a Chaplaincy Role. pastor will serve as a congregational chaplain to the church family and imunity. Because of the high turnover pastors in smaller congregations, one or two strong laypeople will be leveloned to manage the church's	ATRIARCHAL PASTOR-CENTERED Manage multiple conflicting expectations and the desire to "keep up" with larger churches in the community. As the church grows, the pastor will be stretched between caregiving, equipping, supervision, coordination, and connecting with the mission field. Members may be wary of sharing their relational time with the pastor. Serve as the hub of a wheel, relational web, and emotional "switchboard". Pastor serves as coordinator, chief minister, and master of ceremonies. Laity experience having their spiritual needs met through a personal relationship with the appointed clergyperson. Clergy with strong interpersonal skills fare well in this size church, but the time	$150k-$650k (avg 375k) REORGANIZATION Create "emotional space" for multiple ministries to thrive simultaneously. No longer will every member want (or need) to attend every church function. Ministry scheduling will create time and facility conflicts. Begin discerning a few "keynote" ministries that will unite the church. Build a vision of congregational and community care in which the pastor is a leader, but not the only provider of pastoral care. Pastor will need to: Communicate a caring presence in the congregation while reducing the level of one-on-one care provided to members. Senior pastors will need to learn to say "no" and spend time on retooling entire	$500k-$1.5 million (avg 680k) LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT Examine assumptions about growth. The congregation must come to terms with how it understands and defines growth, whether it desires growth, and whether the culture will accommodate growth. Leaders must claim a strategic identity and define growth accordingly. Adopt a visionary leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Discern and articulate an energizing vision for the congregation, and work with the board to translate vision into specific goals to be accomplished. Clearly describe who the	## 400-800 $1-$2 million (avg 1.1 million) PROFESSIONALIZATION Build capacity for growth on the staff team. Possibilities and ideas to generate growth abound but are limited by the capacity of the staff team and limitations in the facility. The church's capacity for growth is largely a function of the size of its budget. Adopt a managerial leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Let go of a purely relational style of leadership and	$00-1200 $2-$4 million (avg 2.4 million) ALIGNMENT Assume growth and plan for it. Lack of growth and "new blood" will quickly lead to stagnation and ultimately to decline. Growth is an ongoing leadership issue. The nature and direction of growth has to be continually negotiated and planned. The congregation needs consistant vision-casting. Adopt a strategic leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Focus on the right things, say no to the wrong things, and spend time on the important things. Team	exclusively on strategy, teaching,	Congregational Size & Common Challenges Every Congregation can be a Vital Congregation, and there are different challenges for differently sized congregations.
PATRIARCHAL/MATRIARCHAL iming a larger vision & mission that xists beyond the extended family. y programs or initiatives may exhaust e church families and their resources ime. Carefully cultivate resources and iersonal investments for maximum missional impact. Serve a Chaplaincy Role. pastor will serve as a congregational chaplain to the church family and munity. Because of the high turnover pastors in smaller congregations, one or two strong laypeople will be developed to manage the church's	ATRIARCHAL PASTOR-CENTERED Manage multiple conflicting expectations and the desire to "keep up" with larger churches in the community. As the church grows, the pastor will be stretched between caregiving, equipping, supervision, coordination, and connecting with the mission field. Members may be wary of sharing their relational time with the pastor. Serve as the hub of a wheel, relational web, and emotional "switchboard". Pastor serves as coordinator, chief minister, and master of ceremonies. Laity experience having their spiritual needs met through a personal relationship with the appointed clergyperson. Clergy with strong interpersonal skills fare well in this size church, but the time	Create "emotional space" for multiple ministries to thrive simultaneously. No longer will every member want (or need) to attend every church function. Ministry scheduling will create time and facility conflicts. Begin discerning a few "keynote" ministries that will unite the church. Build a vision of congregational and community care in which the pastor is a leader, but not the only provider of pastoral care. Pastor will need to: Communicate a caring presence in the congregation while reducing the level of one-on-one care provided to members. Senior pastors will need to learn to	Examine assumptions about growth. The congregation must come to terms with how it understands and defines growth, whether it desires growth, and whether the culture will accommodate growth. Leaders must claim a strategic identity and define growth accordingly. Adopt a visionary leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Discern and articulate an energizing vision for the congregation, and work with the board to translate vision into specific goals to be	PROFESSIONALIZATION Build capacity for growth on the staff team. Possibilities and ideas to generate growth abound but are limited by the capacity of the staff team and limitations in the facility. The church's capacity for growth is largely a function of the size of its budget. Adopt a managerial leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Let go of a	ALIGNMENT Assume growth and plan for it. Lack of growth and "new blood" will quickly lead to stagnation and ultimately to decline. Growth is an ongoing leadership issue. The nature and direction of growth has to be continually negotiated and planned. The congregation needs consistant vision-casting. Adopt a strategic leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Focus on the right things, say no to the wrong things, and	Manage growth from multiple places. Independent ministry areas and worship sites are all working on their own growth initiatives. Growth initiatives are coordinated through a churchwide strategic planning and operational budgeting processes. Leadership focus: create a culture. The senior clergy leader must: Focus exclusively on strategy, teaching,	Common Challenges Every Congregation can be a Vital Congregation, and there are different iming a larger vision & mission that xists beyond the extended family. If yorgrams or initiatives may exhaust exhibited their resources ime. Carefully cultivate resources and investments for maximum missional impact. Serve a Chaplaincy Role. pastor will serve as a congregational chaplain to the church family and imunity. Because of the high turnover pastors in smaller congregations, one or two strong laypeople will be developed to manage the church's	Manage multiple conflicting expectations and the desire to "keep up" with larger churches in the community. As the church grows, the pastor will be stretched between caregiving, equipping, supervision, coordination, and connecting with the mission field. Members may be wary of sharing their relational time with the pastor. Serve as the hub of a wheel, relational web, and emotional "switchboard". Pastor serves as coordinator, chief minister, and master of ceremonies. Laity experience having their spiritual needs met through a personal relationship with the appointed clergyperson. Clergy with strong interpersonal skills fare well in this size church, but the time	Create "emotional space" for multiple ministries to thrive simultaneously. No longer will every member want (or need) to attend every church function. Ministry scheduling will create time and facility conflicts. Begin discerning a few "keynote" ministries that will unite the church. Build a vision of congregational and community care in which the pastor is a leader, but not the only provider of pastoral care. Pastor will need to: Communicate a caring presence in the congregation while reducing the level of one-on-one care provided to members. Senior pastors will need to learn to	Examine assumptions about growth. The congregation must come to terms with how it understands and defines growth, whether it desires growth, and whether the culture will accommodate growth. Leaders must claim a strategic identity and define growth accordingly. Adopt a visionary leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Discern and articulate an energizing vision for the congregation, and work with the board to translate vision into specific goals to be	Build capacity for growth on the staff team. Possibilities and ideas to generate growth abound but are limited by the capacity of the staff team and limitations in the facility. The church's capacity for growth is largely a function of the size of its budget. Adopt a managerial leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Let go of a	Assume growth and plan for it. Lack of growth and "new blood" will quickly lead to stagnation and ultimately to decline. Growth is an ongoing leadership issue. The nature and direction of growth has to be continually negotiated and planned. The congregation needs consistant vision-casting. Adopt a strategic leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Focus on the right things, say no to the wrong things, and	Manage growth from multiple places. Independent ministry areas and worship sites are all working on their own growth initiatives. Growth initiatives are coordinated through a churchwide strategic planning and operational budgeting processes. Leadership focus: create a culture. The senior clergy leader must: Focus exclusively on strategy, teaching,	Common Challenges Every Congregation can be a Vital Congregation, and there are different xists beyond the extended family. y programs or initiatives may exhaust e church families and their resources ime. Carefully cultivate resources and resonal investments for maximum missional impact. Serve a Chaplaincy Role. pastor will serve as a congregational chaplain to the church family and imunity. Because of the high turnover pastors in smaller congregations, one or two strong laypeople will be developed to manage the church's	the desire to "keep up" with larger churches in the community. As the church grows, the pastor will be stretched between caregiving, equipping, supervision, coordination, and connecting with the mission field. Members may be wary of sharing their relational time with the pastor. Serve as the hub of a wheel, relational web, and emotional "switchboard". Pastor serves as coordinator, chief minister, and master of ceremonies. Laity experience having their spiritual needs met through a personal relationship with the appointed clergyperson. Clergy with strong interpersonal skills fare well in this size church, but the time	ministries to thrive simultaneously. No longer will every member want (or need) to attend every church function. Ministry scheduling will create time and facility conflicts. Begin discerning a few "keynote" ministries that will unite the church. Build a vision of congregational and community care in which the pastor is a leader, but not the only provider of pastoral care. Pastor will need to: Communicate a caring presence in the congregation while reducing the level of one-on-one care provided to members. Senior pastors will need to learn to	The congregation must come to terms with how it understands and defines growth, whether it desires growth, and whether the culture will accommodate growth. Leaders must claim a strategic identity and define growth accordingly. Adopt a visionary leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Discern and articulate an energizing vision for the congregation, and work with the board to translate vision into specific goals to be	Possibilities and ideas to generate growth abound but are limited by the capacity of the staff team and limitations in the facility. The church's capacity for growth is largely a function of the size of its budget. Adopt a managerial leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Let go of a	Lack of growth and "new blood" will quickly lead to stagnation and ultimately to decline. Growth is an ongoing leadership issue. The nature and direction of growth has to be continually negotiated and planned. The congregation needs consistant vision-casting. Adopt a strategic leadership style. The senior clergy leader must: Focus on the right things, say no to the wrong things, and	Independent ministry areas and worship sites are all working on their own growth initiatives. Growth initiatives are coordinated through a churchwide strategic planning and operational budgeting processes. Leadership focus: create a culture. The senior clergy leader must: Focus exclusively on strategy, teaching,	Common Challenges Every Congregation can be a Vital Congregation, and there are different pastor will serve as a congregational chaplain to the church family and imunity. Because of the high turnover pastors in smaller congregations, one or two strong laypeople will be developed to manage the church's	and emotional "switchboard". Pastor serves as coordinator, chief minister, and master of ceremonies. Laity experience having their spiritual needs met through a personal relationship with the appointed clergyperson. Clergy with strong interpersonal skills fare well in this size church, but the time	community care in which the pastor is a leader, but not the only provider of pastoral care. Pastor will need to: Communicate a caring presence in the congregation while reducing the level of one-on-one care provided to members. Senior pastors will need to learn to	The senior clergy leader must: Discern and articulate an energizing vision for the congregation, and work with the board to translate vision into specific goals to be	The senior clergy leader must: Let go of a	The senior clergy leader must: Focus on the right things, say no to the wrong things, and	The senior clergy leader must: Focus exclusively on strategy, teaching, ministry for growth.	congregation's purpose, identity, and mission field.	engage the congregation from a managerial perspective. Shift the care focus from the congregation at large to the staff team and key lay leaders. Manage the collective performance of the staff team.	with an executive pastor/team to let go of day-to-day management decisions, find ways to pull back and see the big picture, and learn to lead through the projection of a public persona. Crystallize the vision of the church into clear sound bites that keep the staff team and board in alignment.	preaching and fundraising. Lead the staff team and board with clear statements of vision, values, and strategic priorities. Create a culture that supports the generation of new ideas and innovation. Fully delegate the day-to-day management of the church to a multi-level team of managing directors and campus pastors.	Does the behavior of your congregation place you firmly within one size category, or are you straddling two or more size categories?
Istor works with extended families. The appointed pastor, often a bicational local pastor or an lay supply acher, can best serve as a consultant o the patriarch/matriarch, working agside them. A musician may also be paid to assist in music leadership.	or paid and unpaid servants. Paid staff is usually part-time, and perform limited but essential functions, such as administrative secretary and musician. Ministry teams meetings are needed more than staff meetings. As ministries grow, the number of paid and unpaid staff require supervision that will lead to less time for one-to-one pastoral	Strategic Staffing for Growth. Pastor will need to be a leader for a staff team and work with SPRC on a staffing vision. As the congregation is closer to the 200 mark, program staff will need to be added beyond the pastor and a few part-time administrative or program specialists. Focus should be connecting member's gifts to ministry.	Embrace a team identity. The staff team must: Add some specialized program staff to grow the church when the budget may not be fully ready to support staff additions. The staff team will need to learn to balance the work of the generalist alongside the work of the specialist and watch the calender to avoid over-programming.	Professionalize the ministry. The team must: Transition leadership of ministries previously accomplished by volunteers to staff leaders/ coordinators. Find new ways to engage, equip, and show appreciation for volunteers. Move away from a generalist orientation to distinct areas of specialization. Accept supervision from someone other than the senior clergy leader.	Align work of multiple sub-teams. Staff must: Avoid a silo mentality. Maintain a relational focus in program roles as the administrative components of roles increase. Grow the admin team to accommodate additional growth in the church. Learn to work under the direction of an executive leadership team. Learn new inter-staff comunications systems.	Create cross-functional structure. Staff must: communicate and coordinate, sometimes around dual reporting relationships. Maintain a dual focus on their functional areas of responsibility, and attend to the needs of multiple sites and/or constituencies. Decentralize decision-making.	Is your congregation being pulled upward or downward along the size continuum? Is the congregation currently on a plateau, or perhaps hitting a ceiling?
Decisions are made by the Matriarch/Patriarch. simplified structure (single board) is gested. Board conducts business and nistries in support of the matriarch's d patriarch's vision. Members' roles, esponsibilities, and rights are often based upon respect and position.	messy mix of elected leadership and chosen (or self selected) ministry coordinators and decision-makers, some of whom are short term task-doers. As unpaid servants, ministry coordinators are more permanent leaders and task-doers who value a close working relationship with the pastor. Separate out the	and into a governing role. Board should focus on overarching goals, policy, and oversight. Utilize board training, periodic retreats, and consultants to strengthen the board's	Organize work around mission/vision. Board leaders must: Coordinate the work of a variety of committees and groups. Learn to say "yes" to ideas and activities that support the mission and no to ideas that distract from its mission. Develop new lay leadership.	Board leader must: Create policies and establish a staff team performance	Reduce size of governing board. The board must: Provide a strong support and accountability system for the head of staff. Operate with a strategic mindset, letting go of representational thinking for board membership. Create an executive team (if board size is larger than 9 people). Other leaders must: Learn to trust the decision-making lead of a smaller group.	Decentralize decision-making. The board must: Empower each ministry venue to make decisions about growth in their own areas. Institute a systematic approach to program evaluation to keep the number of programming options workable.	Which leadership challenges are currently the most problematic for your congregation? Is there one set of leadership challenges that seem to be holding you back from living into the size category most appropriate to you?
Welcome new family members. The intimacy and extremely strong ational ties of the church that have that the chart of the testing of time may also take assimilating new people into the ongregation quite difficult. Focus on ersonal faith-sharing and unofficial family mentoring of new people into the life of the church family.	church that have of time may also we people into the lifficult. Focus on ag and unofficial of new people Connecting guests to the larger congregation (and not just the pastor). The pastor usually does guest follow-up, but the larger congregation must follow-up as well with personal invitations to ministry groups and programs.	Create a team and process to ensure that new people find a suitable place within the life of the church, led by an chosen layperson with training. The congregation must embrace the community in new ways to expand reach beyond current membership.	Expand Points of Entry. The congregation must: Add new worship venues, small groups ministries, etc. Meet emerging standards of excellence that people expect from a larger congregation.	Watch the back door. The congregation must: Address the anonymity that occurs in the large church. Find new ways to keep track of members and to get members engaged. Let the staff team take the lead in identifying and developing new leaders.	Create a seamless system of membership. The congregation must: Link membership, discipleship, gift discovery, and stewardship into a cohesive discipleship system through a fully formed network of classes or small groups. Add a staff member who focuses on membership and volunteer management. Empower newcomers to find their own way into participation and membership.	Coordinate participation across venues. The congregation must: Create a membership/development department to coordinate the many venues of entry, so a unified perspective on membership is generated. Hire a development director. Customize and coordinate programs of orientation, and membership so that each venue is unique, but unified.	In which system or challenge is the congregation feeling the most stress? What adaptations would need to take place in order for the congregation's systems to feel "right sized?" What systems would need to change to prepare for growth?
e the capacity to organize, equip, and stain a complex ministry, so embed the members into a local ministry, uring yourselves into the community and letting the nonprofit do the	combine a relationship with local school, to eyond our walls. ch usually doesn't school/nonprofits with some ministries led by small groups. for the pastor is tracking the different projects run by members and paid or unpaid ministry, corthe community inprofit do the	Claim a "keynote" ministry that the membership can claim and use as a rallying point in the midst of internal transition. Leaders of ministires may have found trusted volunteers, and entry into missional minisries may be difficult for new peole, so the keynote ministry is designed as a way for everyone to be a part of a churchwide movement.	Equpping Impact-focused leaders. The congregation's size makes it seductive to focus inwardly. The multiple groups, classes, and ministires will begin to create their own keynote ministries and areas of interest, making churchwide ministries difficult to sustain.	Staffing for Missional Leadership. While missional impact should come first for a congregation, often a staff coordinator or pastor solely focused on missional outreach or engagment is one of the last full-time positions to be considered. If not already staffed, now is the time the congregation must consolidate its capacity for impact through staff leadership. Offer a mix of opportunities including events, mission trips, and ongoing sustained ministries.	Once again a keynote set of specialized ministries is important. These keynote ministries should be created and branded by the congregation for the purpose of communitywide impact. Fully connect missional impact into the discipleship system, and clarify expectations for members and leaders about service.	Coordinate missional areas of focus across multiple campuses and consituencies. The congregation and its constituents may not live in multiple communities, making impact more dispersed, so each campus and "congregation" will need to have an area of focus along with branded ministries that can be found in each venue.
Welce in the control of the control	Matriarch/Potified structure d. Board cont can be sin support of riarch's vision. In the support of the support	messy mix of elected leadership and chosen (or self selected) ministry coordinators and decision-makers, some of whom are short term task-doers. As unpaid servants, ministry coordinators are more permanent leaders and task-doers who value a close working relationship with the pastor. Separate out the fiduciary duties of governance vs. the work of ministry oversight Connecting guests to the larger congregation (and not just the pastor). Connecting guests to the larger congregation (and not just the pastor). The pastor usually does guest follow-up, but the larger congregation must follow-up as well with personal invitations to ministry groups and programs. Well with others, such as a local fit or neighborhood school, to age a focus beyond our walls. willy-sized church usually doesn't capacity to organize, equip, and a complex ministry, so embed tembers into a local ministry, yourselves into the community The pastor usually does guest follow-up, but the larger congregation must follow-up as well with personal invitations to ministry groups and programs. Combine a relationship with local school/nonprofits with some ministries led by small groups. Combine a relationship with local school/nonprofits with some ministries led by small groups. Combine a relationship with local school/nonprofits with some ministries led by small groups. Combine a relationship with local school/nonprofits with some ministries led by small groups. Combine a relationship with local school/nonprofits with some ministries led by small groups. Combine a relationship with local school/nonprofits with some ministries led by small groups. Combine a relationship with local school/nonprofits with some ministries led by small groups. Combine a relationship and combinators are more permanent leaders and task-doers. As unpaid servants, ministry coordinators are more permanent leaders and task-doers. As unpaid servants, ministry coordinators are more permanent leaders and task-doers. As	Motriarch/Patriarch. Iffied structure (single board) is d. Board conducts business and design support of the matriarch's riarch's vision. Members' roles, is isbillities, and rights are often dupon respect and position. To menew family members. It it is a still dupon respect and position. Connecting guests to the larger congregation alties of the church that have dot the testing of time may also similating new people into the gation quite difficult. Focus on all faith-sharing and unofficial ly mentoring of new people he life of the church family. Combine a relationship with local simily-sized church usually doesn't capacity to organize, equip, and a complex ministry, so embed embers into a local ministry, so member and paid or unpaid ministry coordinators. Combine a relationship with local sembers into a local ministry, so embed embers into a local ministry, so unselves into the community letting the nonprofit do the granization/coordination. The pastor is tracking the different projects run by members and paid or unpaid ministry coordinators. The pastor is tracking the different projects run by members and paid or unpaid ministry coordinators. The pastor is tracking the different projects run by members and paid or unpaid ministry coordinators. The pastor is tracking the different projects run by members and paid or unpaid ministry coordinators. The pastor is tracking the different projects run by members and paid or unpaid ministry coordinators. The pastor is tracking the different projects run by members and paid or unpaid ministry coordinators. The pastor is tracking the different projects run by members and paid or unpaid ministry coordinators. The pastor is tracking the different projects run by members and paid or unpaid ministry coordinators. The pastor is tracking the different projects run by members and paid or unpaid ministry coordinators. The pastor tracking goals, policy, and oversight. The pastor usually to acause the term tand into a governing role. The pastor usually to acause t	messy mix of elected leadership and chosen (or self selected) ministry coordinators and decision-makers, some of whom are short term task-doers. As unpaid servants, ministry coordinators and task-doers. As unpaid servants, ministry coordinators and task-doers. As unpaid servants, ministry coordinators and task-doers who value a close working relationship with the pastor. Separate out the fiduciary duties of governance vs. the work of ministry oversight Connecting guests to the larger congregation (and not just the pastor). The pastor usually does guest follow-up, but the larger congregation must follow-up as well with personal invitations to ministry groups and programs. Combine a relationship with total sylvasted church tamily. Combine a relationship with total sylvasted church usually doesn't capacity to organize, equip, and a complex ministry, so embed tembers into a local ministry, sourselves into the community try courselves into the community coordinators. Combine a relationship with total standard or unpaid ministry coordinators. The congregation must embrace the community that the membership. Combine a relationship with tocal school/nonprofits with some ministries led by sand programs. Combine a relationship with tocal school/nonprofits with some ministries led by sand programs. Combine a relationship with tocal school/nonprofits with some ministries led by sand programs. Combine a relationship with tocal school/nonprofit do the leaders of the community in the midst of internal transition. Leaders of ministres will begin to create their own keynote ministries and areas of interest, making churchwide ministries difficult to sustain.	Move away from day to day management and wersight systems. Board leader must. Create policies and self-selected ministry coordinators and decision—makers, some of whom are short term dad into a governing role. Board should focus a governing role. Board should focus the standard's sine, support of the matriarch's sine. Member's roles, sibilities, and rights are often dupon respect and position. Move away from day to day management and wersight systems. Board leader must. Create policies and saries of convertanting goods, policy, and oversight. Utilize board training, periodic retreats, and convertanting goods, policy, and oversight. Utilize board training, periodic retreats, and convertanting goods, policy, and oversight coordinators are more permanent leaders and soultants to strengthen the board's governing role. Move away from day to day management and oversight systems. Board leader must. Create policies and sariety of committees and groups. Learn to salve-yet* to ideas and activities that support the mission and not ideas that distract from its mission. Develop new lay leadership. The pastro usually does guest follow-up, as well with personal invitations to ministry groups and programs. Combine a relationship with local part of the church, tell by an obsenting proups and programs. Combine a relationship with local part of the church family. Down the distriction of the church that have a local program and programs. Combine a relationship with local groups and programs. Combine a relationship with local part of the church dependent of the congregation must. Address the anonymity that cours in the large congregation must. Address the anonymity that the membership and official type and programs. Combine a relationship with local part of the church, led by an obsenting the congregation of th	mesy mix of elected eladership and chosen of site districtive (sing bounds) is elected ministry coordinators and service (sing bounds) is elected ministry coordinators and service (sing bounds) is elected ministry coordinators and service (sing bounds) is eladers. As unaffected even the beard of said-on-makers, some of whom are short term dinine a governing role. Source and position. Move owery, from day to day monogenent and one so desired ministry coordinators and secretary coordinators. Move ower, from day to day monogenent and coordination to work of a driefly office mustic coordinators and secretary coordinators. The congregation and coordinate the members and groups. Lamb and coordinate the members and groups. The board mustic report the medical stand, coordinators. The coordinator of the secretary coordinators and coordinate the memb	makes many of elected eladeschiph and contacts business and discommaking passing policy, and oversight systems and contacts business and business and business and politics, and rights are determined to the politics and rights are determined to the politic and rights are determined to the